三、阅读理解（共 20 小题，40 分。每小题 2 分）

第一节：阅读下面短文，从各题 A、B、C、D 四个选项中，选出最佳答案。

A

Hi Ellie,

I'm so pleased you can come surfing(冲浪) in August! Paul, Rose and Kevin are coming too, so there will be five of us. We've decided to return to New Sands, because the surf board hire is so cheap there. I'm starting to think about where to stay.

Kevin wants to hire a caravan(宿营拖车). There are some nice ones with 3 bedrooms, showers and cooking equipment. The problem is, none of the caravan parks take short bookings in the summer. We have to stay for at least a week. It's a shame because there are several nice parks near the beach.

There's a youth hostel(青年旅社) in New Sands. It's the cheapest choice, and there's a big kitchen where we can cook. The problem is, we live in dormitories and I don't really want to sleep with strangers.

There are a few guest houses in New Sands. They're not expensive, but we wouldn't be able to cook there. We'd have to eat out at restaurants. We'll have to book soon because many of them are already full.

The final choice is to rent a cottage. Few cottages offer mid-week breaks in summer, but I found one. It has three bedrooms—a double, a single and a twin, so two of us would have to share a bed! There's a big kitchen diner with a microwave, washing machine and dishwasher. The problem is, it's 5 miles from the beach, so we'd have to hire a car, because there aren't any buses.

Let me know which choice you prefer.

Yours,
Natalie

City Park and Ride

We have six Park and Ride sites serving the city, more than almost anywhere else in the UK. Founded for over 40 years, they provide around 5,000 parking spaces for cars. The sites are located on the main routes into the city centre. More than 3,000,000 passengers a year take a bus from a Park and Ride site into the city, reducing traffic jams and helping to improve the air quality in the city centre.

Parking at the sites is free and is available only for those travelling from the site on a Park and Ride or other scheduled bus services. No overnight parking is allowed. Heavy goods vehicles are not allowed at the Park and Ride site at any time.

It's simple to use. Just park your car and buy your bus ticket from the bus driver. An individual adult daily return bought before 12:30 for use that day costs £2.40. If bought after 12:30, it costs £2.10. Up to four children under 16 travel free with an adult or concessionary bus pass(乘车优惠证) holder. The return fare for children under 16 who travel alone is £1.10.

Cycle and Ride for just £1.20 a day. Just park your cycle or motorcycle in the marked space, and buy your ticket from the site office. You may be asked to provide evidence that you have travelled to the Park and Ride site by cycle or motorcycle.

Return tickets for concessionary bus pass holders cost £1 after 09:30 Monday to Friday and any time at weekends or bank holidays. At other times there is no reduction for holders of concessionary bus passes.

Do you use emoji very often? It's said that emoji is the fastest growing language in history. Five billion emojis are sent every day just on some social media, such as WeChat and Facebook. They're appearing in some surprising places too. One court judge in England used a smiley face emoji in a document to make it easy to explain the court's decision to children. It's not surprising that there's a day to celebrate emojis, but what do you know about its organizers, the website Emojipedia?

The company Unicode actually creates the computer code that gives us emojis, but Emojipedia is where you can learn exactly what each emoji means and how to use it. Most of us probably know and use the most popular emojis, like the classic smiley face, heart or the smiling face with tears of laughter. But if you want to grow your emoji vocabulary, you can use Emojipedia to find out new ways to speak emoji.

Unicode adds new emojis all the time. They might take time to be available on all platforms and phones, but you will see them immediately on Emojipedia. An important improvement to the emoji list, which had 2,823 emojis after its 2018 update, is to make the emojis more various. The code for each emoji is the same, but different platforms, like WeChat or Facebook, design their emojis in different ways. When Emojipedia was deciding on which day to hold World Emoji Day, only Apple was using a calendar emoji with a date on, 17 July. So, they decided to celebrate World Emoji Day on 17 July too.

If you want to send someone a message using emoji to celebrate World Emoji Day, Emojipedia has plenty to choose from, including six colors of raising hand emojis, five party emojis and two kinds of fireworks. You can even choose a world globe that shows the part of the world you live in. Whichever emojis you choose to celebrate, we wish you Happy World Emoji Day!

49. Why did a court judge use a smiley face emoji in a document?

- A. To surprise children.
- B. To play a joke on children.
- C. To attract children to study the law.
- D. To explain the court's decision to children.

50. Where can people learn about the meanings and uses of emojis?

- A. From Unicode.
- B. On phones.
- C. On Emojipedia.
- D. On platforms.

51. Different platforms _____.

- A. add new emojis all the time
- B. improve the emojis after 2018
- C. design the emojis in different ways
- D. use the same emojis in the same situation

52. The passage is mainly about _____.

- A. the meanings of emoji
- B. the introduction of emoji
- C. the history of emoji
- D. the function of emoji

“Shop local” movements have popped up all over the country, encouraging customers to support their local community(社区) business. The government aims at moving customers away from large, big-box retailers(零售商) and motivating them to support local business owners, farmers, craftsmen, and other product providers. While shopping locally clearly supports one’s own community, the value of supporting local businesses goes much further than that. Shoppers should support local businesses not only to improve the local economy(经济), but also to help cities and towns keep their own unique identities.

Small business is actually big business. One may think of small businesses as just coffee shops or mom-and-pop grocery stores, but when combined together, they can make up an economic powerhouse. According to the Small Business Administration, a U.S. government organization, small businesses make up over ninety-nine percent of the nearly thirty million businesses now operating in the United States. Besides, local businesses provide more than half of the new jobs created across the country.

So, why don’t more people shop locally, supporting small businesses in their very own neighborhoods? Many choose big-box stores and online retailers in order to take advantage of their competitive pricing and convenience. Often consumers find lower prices at corporate-owned retailers at independent businesses. Shopping at online retailers can also be easier. Online, consumers can compare prices and see a broad selection of products, all from the comfort of their homes. However, shopping online fails to notice one of the important pluses of “shopping small.” Local businesses can offer personalized attention, including special deals for regular customers, good customer service, and try-before-you-buy chances.

Shopping locally has benefits beyond customer service. Several studies consistently show that buying from small businesses energizes the local economy. Money spent at an independent business returns more money to the local economy than the same amount spent at a chain retailer. For example, a Chicago study found that for each one hundred dollars spent at a local business, sixty-eight percent remains in the area to fuel the local economy. On the contrary, only forty-three dollars out of each one hundred dollars spent at a chain retailer goes back into the local community. In addition, independent businesses in a successful town center have been shown to help improve the value of nearby homes, further energizing the economic base of a local area.

Independent businesses give a local community its own distinct identity; they are what makes one city different from every other city in the world. Moreover, independent business owners typically act as champions for their communities. Small business owners are more likely to do good for their local towns, strengthening partnerships among citizens, other business owners, community leaders and schools. By supporting local charitable(慈善的) causes, small business owners further strengthen a town’s sense of community spirit.

The value of the “shop local” movement is evidenced by its unexpected support from some large corporations. For example, the credit company American Express sponsors a “Small Business Saturday” movement every year. The event takes place on the Saturday after Thanksgiving, between Black Friday and Cyber Monday. According to the American Express Small Business Saturday Consumer Insights Survey from 2016, eighty-nine percent of Small Business Saturday shoppers stated that the day encourages them to shop locally all year long. That is good news, and people should take note. If big businesses such as American Express are supportive of small businesses, the effort is worthwhile. Hopefully, more people will accept “shop local,” supporting their local communities and local economies for the better.

53. The author believes that _____.
- A. people should support local businesses
 - B. large corporations energize the local economy
 - C. online shopping makes up an economic powerhouse
 - D. big-box retailers give local communities their own identities
54. What’s the main purpose of Paragraph 3?
- A. To describe customer service of shopping locally.
 - B. To explain why people support big-box retailers.
 - C. To compare small businesses with big-box stores.
 - D. To show how people do online shopping at home.
55. From the example of “Small Business Saturday” movement, we know that _____.
- A. shopping locally makes a huge difference
 - B. people are tired of shopping at big-box retailers
 - C. small businesses get support from local communities
 - D. some big companies agree with the idea of shopping locally
56. What is the best title for the passage?
- A. Eat, Drink, Shop Local
 - B. Responsibilities of Local Businesses
 - C. Shop Local, Live Healthy
 - D. Influence of the Shop Local Movement

第二节：阅读下面短文和问题，根据短文内容和每小题后的具体要求，在答题卡相应题号后的横线上写下相关信息，完成对该问题的回答。答语要意思清楚，结构正确，书写工整。

Walking Under Liverpool

In most ways, the English city of Liverpool is no different from other large cities. It is full of people, restaurants, museums, and shops. However, Liverpool stands out in one interesting way. Under the busy streets, there are miles of old tunnels(地下通道). For many years, the tunnels were nearly forgotten. There was no evidence that the tunnels were real. In 2001, a small group of curious people were delighted to discover that the old tales were true. A huge network of tunnels snaked under the city.

We now know that the tunnels were built sometime in the early 1800s. A man named Joseph

Williamson designed them. But there is a lot we still don't know. Why did Williamson want the tunnels? Were they ever used? If so, for what? We can only guess.

One idea is that Williamson, who was rich, was trying to help others. Many people were jobless at that time, and Williamson was known to be kind. Perhaps he came up with the tunnel project so that he could offer people jobs. Another guess is that Williamson used the tunnels for secret business. The tunnels would have made it possible for him to go places without being seen.

Still others suspect that Williamson built the tunnels for safety reasons. Perhaps he was afraid that some type of dangerous event would happen. The tunnels would have offered protection for himself and his loved ones.

Some people who study the tunnels have yet another idea. They believed that long ago, people removed sandstone from the land. The sandstone removal would have left huge holes. Williamson may have wanted to fix the holes. Instead of filling them, perhaps he had his workers build archways(拱道) across them. In time, houses and other constructions were built over the archways.

The ideas are interesting, but no one knows the truth. Williamson did not tell many people why he built the tunnels. Maybe he wrote down his reasons and put the papers somewhere in the tunnels. Perhaps those papers will one day be found. For now, the mystery(谜) of the Williamson Tunnels remains.

Dear Jack,

I'm very happy to learn you are interested in our school activities on Chinese traditional culture. I'd like to tell you about a recent Chinese cultural event in our school.

The theme of the event was Chinese idioms. On Monday, a university professor gave us a lecture on Chinese idioms. He told us about the origins of and stories about many commonly known idioms. We were strongly interested; some started to collect more stories about idioms. On Friday, we shared the stories in class. We were all amazed by the rich meaning in the idioms, and realized how intelligent ancient Chinese scholars were to have written so many Chinese idiom stories.

I hope now you have had some idea about how we value and study traditional culture. If you have a chance to visit China, I'll invite you to experience some activities like this.

Best regards,

W: Your favourite fish salad and chicken soup.
M: That sounds great.
W: Look, look. For dessert, I've made an apple pie.
M: Really? When did you learn to make an apple pie?
W: I learned from a cookbook today. It took me two hours. I think it's delicious. How do you like it?
M: Um... To be honest, it's too sweet. I believe you can do better next time.

M: Yes, we came back five minutes ago.

W: Wait, a new iPad? How did you pay for all of those?
M: Um, Dad paid by credit card.
W: What do you need a new iPad for?
M: I need to use it in our science class and we will do some homework online.

M: Hi, Kate.
W: Hi, Don. What a surprise!
M: Yeah, we haven't seen each other for almost three months. And you look quite different now.
W: Have you noticed what has changed?

M: Oh, you are in good shape. Are you on a diet or drinking diet tea?
W: Neither, I'm just doing more exercise. And it's really worked in the past three months. I've lost twelve pounds.
M: Wow! That's great. I really want to lose weight. I've been trying for two months, but it's difficult to keep up the exercise.
W: That's true. Old habits are hard to break.
M: What kind of exercise do you take? Do you go swimming or running?
W: Well, I'm taking a dance class. I dance two hours every day after work.
M: Dance? You only go dancing? That's not hard. I can do that.
W: Why not join my dance class next week?
M: Good idea!

W: Let's talk about your job. How many movies have you made?
M: That's a hard question. I think I've made more than 15 movies!
W: Wow. That's a lot! How many years have you been an actor?
M: I've been an actor since I was ten years old. In other words, I've been an actor for twenty years.
W: That's impressive. Do you have any future projects?
M: Yes, I do. I'm going to focus on making an action movie next year.
W: That sounds great. Do you have any plans beyond that?
M: Well, I'm not sure. Maybe I will become a movie director, and after that I'll just retire.
W: That's good to hear. We love your movies! Thank you for the interview.
M: You are welcome.

[Phone ringing...]
W: Hey, this is Bella. I'm sorry I'm not in. Just leave a message.
[Beep]
M: Hey, Bella. This is Hank. I'm calling to tell you that I found an apartment near downtown. It's very convenient. It's about 1.5 kilometers away from the city center, 1 kilometer away from a supermarket and 500 meters away from a park. It has two bedrooms, a kitchen and a bathroom. I think it's big enough for your family. What's special is that it is on the first floor and there is a small garden in front of the building. You can enjoy your summer evenings with your family. Imagine how nice it is to watch the kids playing outside in the garden! I have called the owner about the price. He asks for 200 dollars a week. I think the price is acceptable. Tell me your decision as soon as possible. Bye!

W: Hello. Welcome to Pizza Hut. How can I help you?
M: Hello. Could you arrange me a table for five by the door?
W: Sorry, sir. The seats are full now. Would you like to wait for a while?
M: OK. And how long do I have to wait?
W: Um... That depends. But usually 30 minutes or so. Is that OK?
M: OK. Put me on the waiting list. And may I see the menu first?
W: Sure. By the way, the specials today are cream mushroom soup and sausage pizza.
M: Thank you. I would consider that. Is it possible to prepare something for a birthday celebration?
W: What would you like? Whose birthday is it?
M: My son's tenth birthday. Could you prepare some toys and ten balloons?
W: No problem. Some toys and ten balloons. May I have your name, sir?

W: OK. And your telephone number, please?
