The Moving Love Story about Onions

I always recall my dad as well as my mom whenever I see or hear of the onions. Although all between my dad and my mom has passed with the tide of time, the memory still 36 in my mind. In my memory, my parents are a favorable loving and caring couple. They lived in 37 with each other from the day of their marriage to the existence of me in the family.

38, those happy days didn't last long. When I was ten, my mom suddenly 39 in a faint when washing up in the kitchen. I was so 40 at that time that my mind went blank without any response but to cry. My dad ran to her and yelled her name but she was still unconscious, 41 he sent her to the nearest hospital as fast as he could. After an all-round check, the doctor said with 42 to my dad that she had got diagnosed with brain cancer in the late period. That evening he didn't say anything.

My mom 43 and would never come back to me anymore. I managed to live by myself but the flow of sorrow and 44 to her never stopped. My dad has to 45 a role of a breadwinner as well as a household wife. He behaved just as usual, but I found that he developed a(n) 46 of cutting onions, which was really strange. Every time I saw him cutting onions, I discovered that several drops of 47 flowed over his flush cheek.

"Why are you 48?"

"No, it's because of the stimulant from the onions"

"I have learned from a science book that if you cut onions in the water, you will not cry." I said with satisfaction.

"Oh, really? Thank you, my little love." was my dad's 49. But next time, when he cut onions in the basin full of water, his eyes still 50 with tears. "Why?" I said to myself with too much 51.

Now, I grow up, and my father 52 does so as he did before. What a white and fancy but moving 53 my father had made in those years. The 54 my mom's death brings to my whole family is so deeply rooted in his heart.

Now, he still believes that I have been taken in by his white lie. Mom, you will never be lonely in the heaven as there is a middle-aged man devoting what remains of his life to 55 you and weep not once for you.

第三部分：阅读理解（共两节，40 分）

第一节（共 15 题；每小题 2 分，共 30 分）

阅读下列短文，从每题所给的 A、B、C、D 四个选项中，选出最佳选项

A

A Dream Realized

Zhao Yang, 33, an employee of a French company in Beijing, who has traveled extensively in the United States by motorbike.

I have been addicted to Harley-Davidson motorcycles since I was young, and knowing that motorcycle-related culture is very popular in the US, I decided to take a trip. Along with my wife and a group of fellow enthusiasts, I participated in a 15-day tour in October last year. We had one free day, so I headed to Las Vegas.

Before arriving in the US, I researched a range of materials about riding a motorbike there. I also found some classic recommended routes on Chinese websites related to Harley Davidson clubs.

With the help of their suggestions, I designed my own route.

In accordance with the rules, before I left China I visited a notary office (公证机关), where my driving license was confirmed as acceptable in the US and my documents were translated into English. Only then did I buy my basic motorcycle equipment.

When we arrived at Las Vegas, we rented a Harley Davidson and rode around the city. It was an exciting, unforgettable experience, because it was not only the achievement of a dream, but I also experienced the regional motorcycle culture in the US. As we parked the bike at the roadside, some drivers rolled down their car windows and gave us the thumbs-up, and when we drove on the road, car drivers pulled over to let us pass. We also visited a motorcycle-themed restaurant for lunch and enjoyed the fantastic decoration and delicious food.

I believe that traveling by motorcycle in the US will become popular because of the recent joint efforts to promote Sino-US tourism, especially after the two countries decided to name 2016 as US-China Tourism Year. This new style of traveling will attract more young Chinese tourists, and people like me, who have a passion for freedom and adventure, will visit the US more frequently. For example, I am planning to travel along the famous highway called Route 66 with friends during next year's Spring Festival.

If travel agencies and governments can promote the need for motorcyclists to obtain accurate information before they head to the US - such as the required documents, how to rent a motorbike and local traffic laws - "riding the range" will become a safe and great way to spend a vacation.

56. Zhao Yang's childhood dream was to _____.

A. become a professional motorcyclist

- B. travel in Harley-Davidson motorcycles
C. take a trip in the USA along with his wife
D. travel to work on a fashionable motorcycle
57. To prepare for the motorcycle trip in the USA, Zhao Yang _____.
A. made various research and checked his driving license
B. took the suggestions given and chose the classic route
C. joined one of the Harley Davidson clubs and got suggestions
D. took lots of health examinations and bought some equipment
58. How did Zhao Yang feel when driving in Las Vegas?
A. disturbed      B. disappointed      C. depressed      D. excited
59. Zhao Yang thinks that traveling by motorcycle in the US will _____.
A. enjoy much popularity with Sino-US tourism
B. obtain less American fans in motorcycle travel
C. get less support from the modern motorcyclists
D. meet more challenge with the information gap

Tech Breakthrough on Nib(笔尖) to Help China's Ballpoint Industry

With an annual production of 40 billion ballpoint pens, Chinese ballpoint pen companies could finally end its total dependence on imports of high standard steel for pen nib as breakthrough technology on the part has been proven a success.

Beifa, a leading stationery brand in China, is testing out some pen refills (笔芯) made with “pen nib steel” for the sixth round. The refills have to be capable of writing 800 meters without a break under the same writing angle to pass the test.

Some other stationery brands like TrueColor have also started using the steel in their products.

The steel is likely to replace imported materials completely in two years.

Currently, more than 40 billion ballpoint pens are produced in China annually by more than 3,000 companies and 200,000 workers.

The secret “pen nib steel”

A ballpoint is made up of a ball and a ball seat. The latter is the difficult part to produce, as the seat can only be made out of steel that is easy to cut but resistant to break while it is being made.

The core technique in producing such high-standard steel has been an industry secret only known to a small number of countries, including Japan and Switzerland.

China has to pay 15 million US dollars every year to import more than 1,000 tones of such steel for production.

But the situation is expected to change after China's Shanxi Taigang Stainless Steel Co. figured out the production technique of "the pen nib steel" four months ago — that is, five years after the country started a ballpoint project, with Taigang as the leading participant.

Wang Huimian, a senior engineer with Taigang, said micro-elements are essential in turning raw steel into "pen nib steel" with perfect performance. To work out the right proportion of different elements, Wang said, Taigang's research team has conducted a massive number of experiments as they had no examples to follow or refer to.

After repeated failures, the company finally achieved success in a test in September 2016 and later produced the first batch (批次) of pen nib steel with a diameter of 2.3 mm.

63. What is the breaking news?

- A. 40 billion ballpoint pens were produced last year.
- B. High standard steel brought Tech breakthrough on nib.
- C. Beifa has tried out some pen refills in "pen nib steel".
- D. More high quality steel has been imported abroad.

64. What promoted the independence of China's ballpoint industry?

- A. The government put lots of money to the production of steel.
- B. Taigang got the core technique and produced the needed steel.
- C. Taigang got to know the importance of high-standard steel.
- D. The government negotiated with Switzerland and bought their Tech.

65. Which of the following can best describe the underlined word "resistant"?

- A. available
- B. convenient
- C. harmful
- D. difficult

66. What can we learn from the process of making this breakthrough?

- A. Where there is a will, there is a way.
- B. West and East, home is the best.
- C. A good turn deserves a good one back.
- D. Man struggles upwards; water flows downwards.

D

Both Males And Females Have Right to Choose Personality

Recently, the debate about males' masculinity (男子汉气概) has been quite heated. Some people think that males should be different from females and show their masculinity while others hold the view that too much emphasis on masculinity can lead to male violence and an excessive desire for power and status.

While everyone has his or her own opinions, what really matters is that one should have the right to choose their own personality - whether masculine or feminine. Besides, it is important that everyone should respect other people's choices, and should not look down upon others because they do not follow the mainstream.

One of my college classmates has suffered discrimination owing to his personality and clothes. He is a shy boy with a soft voice and he likes dressing in pink shirts, which makes him a little girlish. Some students often talk in the back, saying that he had no masculinity, and some even doubted that he might be gay. During group activities, some students deliberately alienate him. This drove him crazy. He complained to me, "Personal behavior and clothing are my own choices. Why can't other students respect my choice and tolerate my difference?"

Indeed, no one can push others to be manly, but should learn to respect difference. The same goes for females as no one can force females to be feminine.

In the traditional concept, females should be gentle and soft. However, in modern society, more and more women are beginning to focus on their own rights, and have their own thoughts. Some women have made extraordinary achievements in some fields. But brave, decisive and independent females with remarkable achievements at work are often labeled as strong women, which has bad implications. Some people will say these females are too strong and lack the femininity women are supposed to have.

Meanwhile, females' clothing choices are often judged by others. Women these days often dress for comfort. However, this kind of clothing is criticized for not having female charm. There is even a prejudice that females who dress this way are often not accepted.

In modern society, both males and females have the right to choose whether they want to be masculine or feminine rather than be limited by social stereotypes (老套) based on gender. Only in this way can we further harbor the benefits of gender equality and freedom of choice.

67. The author's classmate has suffered discrimination because _____.

- A. he seems a little crazy
- B. he doubts everything
- C. he behaves like a girl
- D. he complains too much

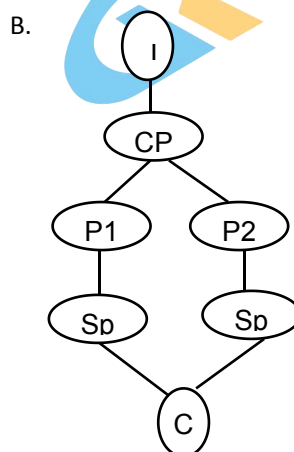

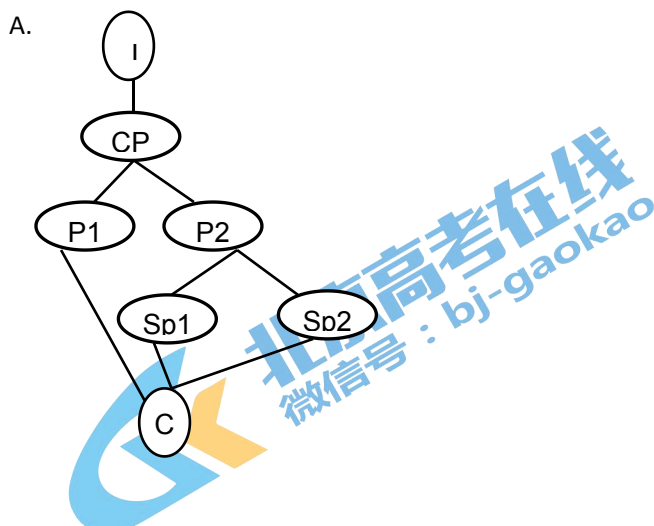

68. The strong women are looked down upon because _____.

- A. they focus too much on their job
- B. they never do housework at home
- C. they fight for their rights bravely
- D. they are powerful rather than soft

69. It can be inferred from the passage that _____.

- A. people should always follow the mainstream
- B. women are still the weakest in today's society
- C. freedom of personality choice needs promoting
- D. gender equality is something possible nowadays

70. Which of the following shows the development of ideas in the passage?

I: Introduction CP: Central point P: Point Sp: Sub-point C: Conclusion

第二节（共 5 小题；每小题 2 分，共 10 分）

根据短文内容，从短文后的七个选项中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两项为多余选项。

Parents Model Healthy Eating

It should come as no surprise that the more stressed parents are at work, the greater the burden on their family is. 71 After all, the more time parents spend working, the less time and energy they have to plan and prepare healthful meals.

For years, most studies have focused on the role of working mothers while fathers were ignored. They didn't look at the family as a whole. 72 It adds a new wrinkle to the relationship between work stress and family nutrition.

Moms' work related stress is still a central factor in how well families eat because they typically do most of the food shopping and cooking. 73 The study found that when mom or dad experience high levels of work related stress, their families are eating one-and-a-half fewer family meals per week, and the parents themselves report eating fewer fruits and vegetables, more fast food, and are less likely to eat breakfast regularly.

It's worth noting that the study looked mainly at low income families who belonged to ethnic or minority groups. 74 But the implications are wide ranging.

75 Teaching kids, especially teenagers, to help with grocery shopping and to cook actual meals, instead of just putting a frozen pizza in the microwave, could be an important piece of the puzzle in helping families improves their eating habits.

- A. But dad's work related stress has a large impact, too.
- B. As to family nutrition, the entire family plays a role even kids.
- C. Yet, the kids' stress may affect the families' nutrition, too.
- D. So the findings don't necessarily apply directly to other types of families.
- E. It's also probably not a surprise that this can negatively affect a family's nutrition.
- F. However, a recent study does and look at the role of fathers in particular.
- G. It is parents who give their kids a good model to develop a good eating habit.

Dear Jim,

I'm writing to express my thanks for your help during my stay in the USA. I've been back home safely but I am still lost in the good days spent together with you and your family.

I'm really grateful for your good care and kind help in America. Arriving there, my language was not very good, and do you still remember you help me with my presentation on Mr. Donald's lecture? Without your help with my language, I must have fooled myself. Besides this, you took me out to so many places of interests, which brought me a great grasp of ancient and present-day America. The most touching and warmest experience was having met and stayed with your family, which is a democratic, open, friendly and encouraging family. I have to say that I love you all from the bottom of my heart.

I can't thank you more, and I hope in the near future you'd like to visit Beijing, China. Then, I can try my best to pay you back. I'd like to introduce you to all my family and friends, and I'm hoping to take you to the Great Wall, one of the seven wonders in the world.

I'm looking forward to your reply. Wish you good luck!

Yours,
Li Hua.

Friends come from Netherlands

Last week, our school received and treated friends coming from the Netherlands, who were exchange students and teachers. During the week, took part in various activities together, which was really great and memorable.

Early on Monday morning, the Netherlands students and teachers arrived and took part in our flag-raising ceremony, during which, I, one of the journalists, made a speech to welcome them on behalf of all the faculty and students.

During the following days, they had a variety of special classes to learn traditional Chinese culture. The most impressive is an art class. From this class, they learnt a lot about Chinese characters and were taught to write Chinese characters under the guidance of the art teacher. Besides, they also learnt about Peking opera from the art teachers, and made Peking opera make-ups as well. During the classes, they always listened carefully with big ears and an open mouth. And they couldn't wait to raise their hands with a smiling face when they were asked to answer some questions or share their feelings.

On Wednesday, they were taken to the Forbidden City for a visit where they were shocked at the wisdom of the ancient Chinese that they took enormous pictures as memory. During the visit, they listened to the guide attentively, asking questions and making comments. When asked about their feelings and gains, they always put their thumbs up and told me it was a terrific trip and there was admiration in their eyes.

Time flew, we had to say goodbye to each other. On the very day of departure, we gave them Chinese knots as a gift, expressing our miss and love for each other.

Text 1

W: Good evening! Can I help you?

M: I'd like to have something nice to eat. Anything to recommend?

W: We have dumplings, noodles and fried rice. Which do you prefer?

M: Fried rice with eggs and tomatoes, please.

Text2

M: It's good to see the sun again, isn't it?

W: Yes. We can enjoy the sunshine after a week's smog.
M: But the weatherman says it's going to rain this weekend.
M: What a pity. I planned to go camping then.

Text 3

W: I am so glad the May Day is coming. What's your plan?
M: Me? I have to stay at home to prepare for the coming examination? How about you?
W: I'm going to my hometown to see my parents and then go camping in the mountain there. It's said the Most Beautiful Village is nearby.
M: That sounds exciting.

Text 4

W: Good afternoon. Can I help you?
M: Good afternoon. I come here to renew the book I borrowed last week.
W: How long will you keep it?
M: Can I keep it for another week? You know, I'm busy preparing the exam.
M: Certainly, you can.

Text 5

W: I hear that you're going abroad for further education. Will you go to Hungary as planned?
M: I planned to. But I've changed my mind. I was advised to go to Italy or France, but I haven't decided yet.
W: In my opinion, Italy might be a better choice for a student of art. After all, it's the hometown of Leonardo da Vinci.
M: That's good idea. I'll go there.

Text 6

W: Billy, you don't look well. What's the matter?
M: I'm feeling sleepy now. My head aches.
W: Let me see. You've got a fever and we must go to the hospital to see a doctor.
M: Oh, no. I have to go to school today. We have a football match with class 2 this afternoon.
W: But you've got a fever and playing football isn't a good idea for a boy with a fever. I'll call your teacher and ask for a leave for you.
M: Please, mum, let me go. A small fever isn't a big matter for a man. Besides, I'm captain of football team. I have to go this afternoon.
W: Ok. But take this medicine first and you might be better then.
M: Thank you. You are so kind.

Text 7

W: John, is the environment a big problem in your country?

M: Yes. The biggest problem is water. The climate is dry in my country so water conservation is very important.

W: I see. I think the biggest environmental problem in my country is air pollution.

M: The air here is much more polluted than that in my country.

W: Cars are a major cause of the pollution in this country. Factories have become cleaner as stricter environment pollution law has been made. And we also have applied environmental friendly heating system in winter.

M: I don't believe that any single country can do anything about it.

W: I think you're right.

M: And large population may also cause many problems both in cities and in the countryside.

W: That's right.

Text 8

M: How often do you use the Internet?

W: I use it almost every day, but I usually only use it to check my business e-mail and contact my friends. I often don't surf the net.

M: I use the Internet a lot. I use it to find products at the lowest prices for my company. It can be frustrating when the connection is poor.

W: So, you're online eight hours a day.

M: Yes, I like the job, though. Sometimes, I help other people in the office if they're having trouble online.

W: How do you find the Internet as a source of information?

M: I think it's fairly useful, but there are some problems.

W: What are the problems?

M: First, a lot of information you find online is false. Second, when you buy something online, you don't see it until you actually get it. The biggest problem is that people easily get addicted to it and buy what they don't need.

W: How do you solve those problems when you're buying something online?

M: What I do is to find the website of shops. Then someone from our company visits the shop and buys when they've seen that the products are real and suitable.

Text 9

Traditional Chinese weddings are always filled with red things to bring blessings and respects. The Chinese regard the color red as the symbol of happiness, success, luck, faith and growth. They like red very much, which comes from love of the Sun.

A Chinese marriage is not only a uniting of two families. During the wedding ceremony, people play fireworks to draw the attention of god, which means harmony between nature and the people inside.

The sound of musical instruments in the wedding is usually loud to express the voice of human to nature. It demonstrates the importance of the marriage.

The food the bride eats has cultural significance. In traditional weddings, the bride usually has red dates, peanuts, longans and melon seeds. The meaning is evident in the Chinese pronunciation of these four foods. When they are said together, it sounds like "Have a baby soon."

Text 10

W: Hello, fire service.

M: Hello. I'm ringing because I think there's a fire in the house opposite. Smoke is coming out of the upstairs windows.

W: Can you give me your name and address and telephone number, please?

M: Yes, Hank Cousins, 17 Mallett Street, Alford.

W: I'm sorry. Can you spell Mallett, please?

M: Yes. M-A-L- L-E-T-T. The telephone number is 6943168. The fire's in number 18 just across the road.

W: Mallett Street. 6943168. By the way, is anyone in the house?

M: No they've gone on holiday to Australia. They won't come back until Saturday, October, 8th.

W: So they haven't come back yet. When did you find the fire?

M: Just now. At about 2:25.

W: OK. We'll get there in about 5 minutes.

M: What shall I do? Shall I warn the neighbors?

W: Yes, you'd better tell the people living next door, at number 16 and number 20. But don't go into the house.

M: All right.
